

How your money helps

£5

Could provide a memory box for a bereaved child. They can store sentimental trinkets inside to help them cope with their loss.

£13

Could pay for a patient's meals for a day, including breakfast, lunch and dinner.

£19

Could pay for one hour of our expert care, helping people live the best life they possibly can.

£23

Could pay for a patient's disposable medical supplies and equipment for a day, such as needles, syringes and dressings.

£140

Could pay for a hospice nurse for a day.

£60

Could provide one session of bereavement counselling for someone struggling to cope with the loss of a loved one.

£70

Could pay for a Sue Ryder Nurse's uniform.

£150

Could ensure a Hospice at Home nurse has a mobile working bag to carry the essential supplies they need to give expert care to someone in the community.

£1,100

Could pay for a syringe driver to give constant symptom relief for patients.

£3,200

Could buy a specialist bed to ensure patients have as much comfort and support as possible.

£12,500

Is the average cost to run one of our family support teams for a month, offering practical and emotional support to people through the most difficult times of their lives.

£500

Could pay for a bed for a day of inpatient care for a hospice patient.

Sue Ryder

palliative, neurological and bereavement
support